

Student Bulletin

Student Bulletin

24 April 2017

Millennium Learning Zone Goes Silent!

From now until exams, the millennium learning zone will be a silent working area. If you want to do group work or talk about work, go to the social area or the canteen.

John Rubinstein

Fantastic Opportunity

We have been contacted by the UpReach social mobility charity that supports young people at university from less advantaged backgrounds to secure top jobs.

They deliver personalised programmes which include one to one support, cv reviews, mock interviews and skills workshops throughout your time at university. The idea is that you join up now and then they support you during university and help you get internships and a top job when you graduate.

They are coming in to do a talk for those interested in finding out more. Their target group is A2 students who:

are predicted to get at least BBB at A level have a combined family income of less than £42,650

If you meet the criteria and are interested, sign up NOW on Woodle Events and come to the short (30-45 minute) meeting at 12.45pm TOMORROW in the conference room.

John Rubinstein

Demonstration Against Trump

On Monday 1 May there will be a large student demonstration across London ahead of Trump's state visit.

There will be a table in the social area this lunch time where students can sign up to join the 'Trump Walkout Day'. Leaflets will also be going around. If on the bank holiday you are able to show your support please join the protest.

John Rubinstein on behalf of George Jenkins

College Prom Friday 30 June

Tickets are available now on Woodle under Events for £25. You can pay in two instalments if you wish.

7.30pm to midnight (last entry 9.00pm).

DJ, food, casino, drinks, fireworks, photo booth.

Amanda Forshaw

