

Student Bulletin

11 June 2018

Foundations of Learning a Student Reflection

Friday 15 June 1pm – 1.45pm in Room 2
All welcome

The foundations of learning consist of:

1. who do you listen to?
2. your teachability index, out of 100%
3. the training balance scale
4. the four steps of processing information
5. focus on the basics

I have utilised this information and has proven useful over my short time alive, and I would like to share it with others.

Julius Murray

Queen Mary Open Day

Queen Mary is a Russell Group university in East London. Usually it is one of the most popular university destinations for Woodhouse students. They have written to us to invite you to their open day.

They say: We would love to see as many Woodhouse College students there as possible. At the Open Days, students will find every academic School and student support service represented, and be able to explore our leafy campus and find out more about the subjects that interest them from lecturers and current students. Students can find out more and book a place for either Friday 22 or Saturday 23 June at <https://www.qmul.ac.uk/undergraduate/openday/>.

John Rubinstein